

NextLabs Certified Solutions Specialist NCSS

FY2026

NCSS Certification Guide

January 2026

Introduction

NextLabs provides multiple learning paths for data security experts. This guide details available paths for an individual to achieve the NextLabs Certified Solutions Specialist (NCSS) distinction in their selected areas of specialization.

Our objective is to equip practitioners with the skills necessary to become proficient in designing and implementing data-centric security solutions using NextLabs policy and enforcement technology.

Certification Requirements

Specialists can begin their learning journey towards NCSS certification by enrolling in our Policy System Training Course.

After obtaining a Certificate of Completion for the Policy System Training Course, they can then advance along several learning paths. For instance, they can continue to specialize within the Policy System, branch out to other domains such as SAP, or even explore both. More learning paths will be released in the future.

Enrollment instructions and course schedules will be available on our website. When registering for a course, attendees may need to present prior achievement certificates.
